The Origins of Soul Prayer Charts

Soul Prayer Charts are part of a larger series of healing and learning tools called Intuitive Learning Circles and are based on Design Therapy, which comes from the indigenous people of the Amazon. In their special treatments, the Shipibo shamans telepathically communicate with a sacred hummingbird through their songs of joy and healing.

The hummingbird is said to paint a healing design around the body of the patient during a ceremony. If that design can be integrated and maintained, the patient will recover. If it is lost, blurred, distorted or replaced by an impostor design, the patient will remain ill or possibly die. Scientists have conjectured that the design is potentially a picture of our DNA.

During a visit to the Amazon in 2001, I participated in numerous ceremonies of this kind. Like many people who undergo these healing journeys, I had visions of a multitude of jungle animals, plants and nature spirits that came to interact with me. Some came to heal and others came to challenge my beliefs about the world and who I thought I was.

Shipibo Tapestry

Later on, in my dreams or during meditation, these totems returned and taught me through stories, poems and visions of the circles. By following the direction I received, I was eventually able to transcribe their messages and the circles themselves into several volumes, each with a specific focus.

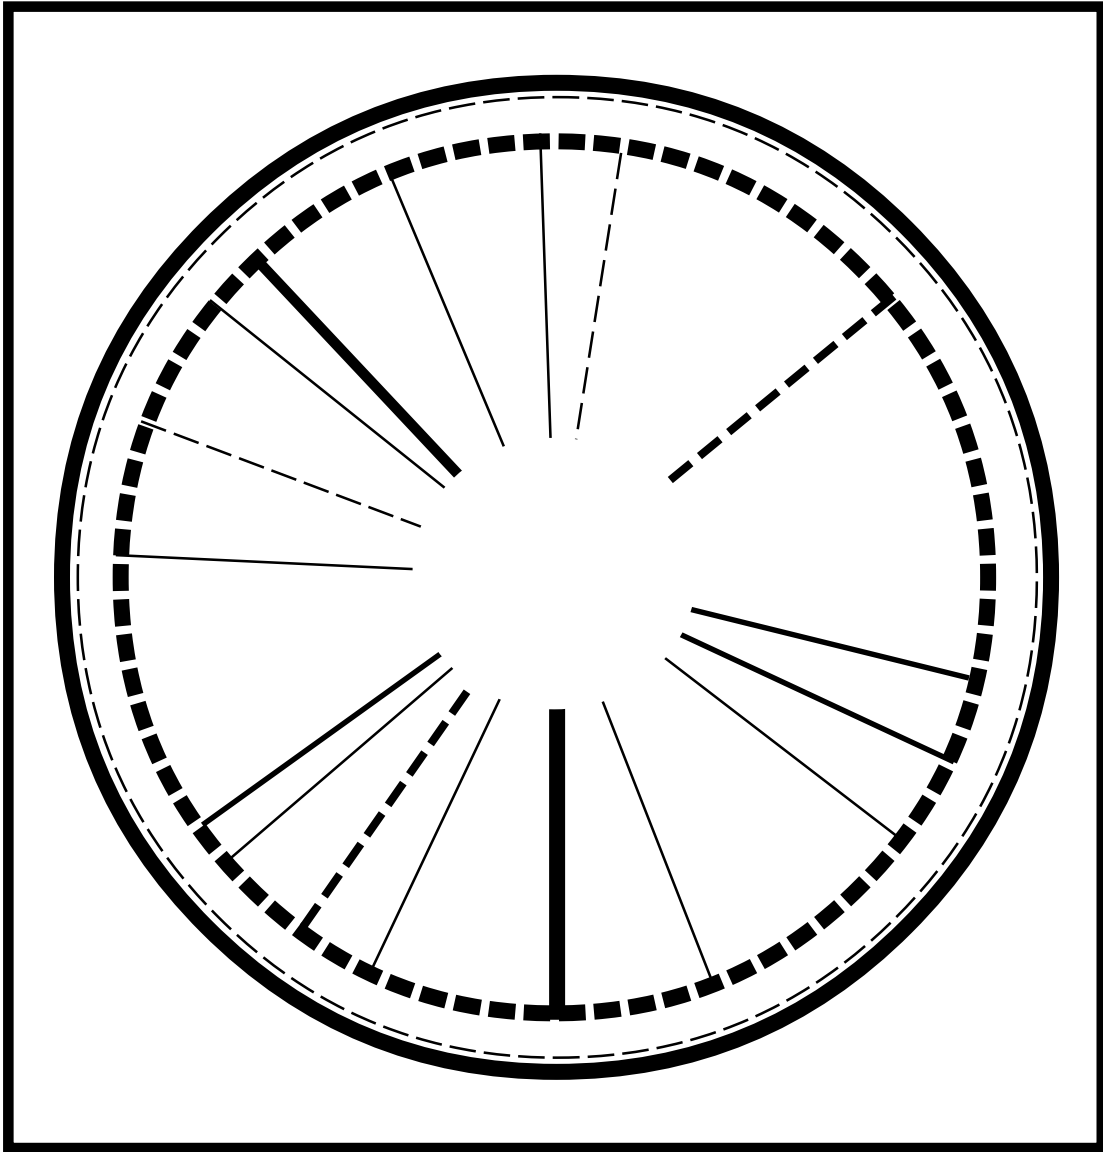

At first, I used them to help myself with the after effects of trauma, abuse and learning challenges. Very soon, I discovered that they could also help me to develop deeper levels of perception and expanded consciousness. Later, I began to use them with friends and clients. Over the years I have used them in conjunction with massage, Reiki sessions, medical intuitive consultations, feng shui, energy clearing and a variety of group activities. They have proven very effective to other health practitioners such as Acupuncturists, Chiropractors, Massage Therapists, Kinesiologists, Hypnotherapists and Naturopathic Physicians.

In addition to Peruvian Shamanism, I have found the circles to be particularly compatible with these modalities and their underlying principles:

Vipassana Meditation
Homeopathy
Touch for Health
Applied Kinesiology
Reiki
Karuna Reiki
Grail Reiki
Color Therapy
Flower and Gem Essences

Lomi Lomi and Hawaiian Huna
Craniosacral Work

Five Element Theory
Rolfing/Structural Integration
Tibetan Energy Work Focusing Past-life Regression Therapy
Archetypal Studies
Micro-current
Polarity Therapy
Music Therapy

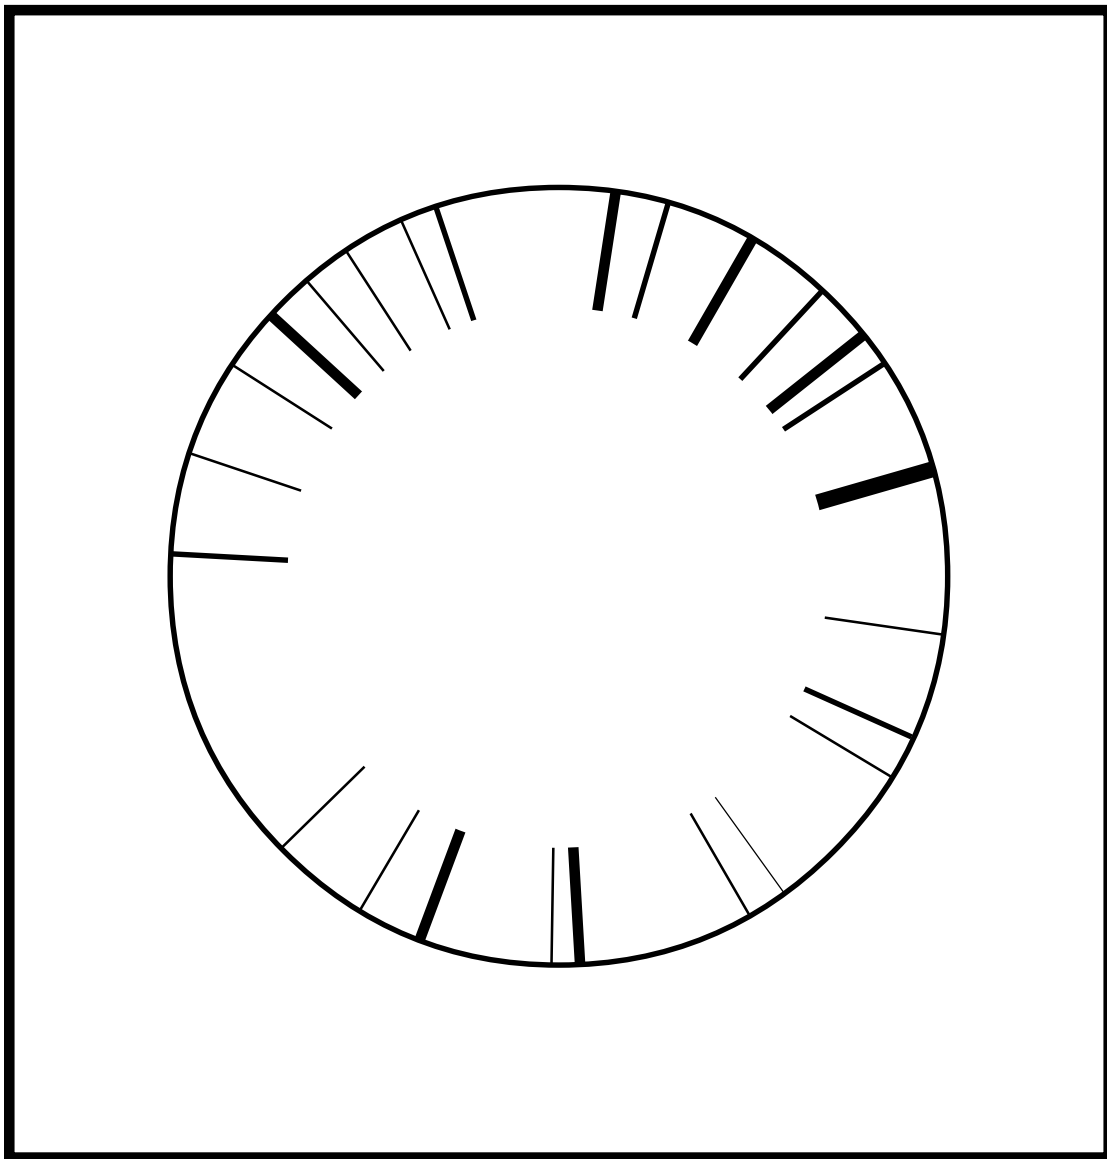

*Unearth All Agreements
That No Longer Serve You at this Time*

Unconscious agreements have been planted in your subconscious mind either by early childrearing techniques or conditioning from society through education, the media, or religious upbringing.

Examine your beliefs, attitudes and behaviors - determine which ones are not grounded in present reality and release your agreement with them.

Like the Earth, you can no longer afford to sacrifice your energy or well-being.

“To thine own self be true.”
“Heal yourself, and you heal the world.”

Clear Inhibitors and Dark Energies

Shine light on your auric bodies with the full power of God and the Soul.

Keep your attention on the strength and beauty of the light rather than the darkness.

Paying attention to problems only creates more of them.

Surrender and commit to the eternal light of God and Soul and allow them to heal completely.
